

Master's Message

Greetings from the East.

Brethren,

As April is upon us, we must continue striving to achieve great things within our Lodge—through charity, devotion to Masonic tradition, and a desire for continual growth. With concerted effort, we can accomplish these goals with remarkable success.

As a charitable institution, we must consider how we can expand our understanding of charity. Charity is not solely about monetary giving; it is equally about the gift of time and expertise. Assisting someone in need by offering your time is a profound act of charity. Likewise, sharing your knowledge and skills with a Brother in need is another meaningful way we can serve.

As we grow, we must ensure that Masonic traditions are preserved and passed down to our newer Brethren. In doing so, we strengthen the foundation of our Lodge and ensure that it remains strong and true—both now and in the future. This commitment also fosters respect for the Lodge and for one another.

For any Lodge to survive and thrive, it must welcome new members. One of the best ways to accomplish this is by being a beacon of light within our community. We achieve this by demonstrating excellence in our actions, by being visible through our positive works, and by showing genuine love and support for all our brethren.

In summary, let us continue to unite for the success of our Lodge by committing ourselves to charity, preserving our traditions, and fostering growth. Let us bring in new Brothers who will help carry our legacy forward.

Be the Light!

Sincerely and fraternally,

Wor. Robert E. Pollard
Worshipful Master, 2026

This month's Nonprofit Appreciation is the Shalom Zone!

The Gallatin Shalom Zone, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit at 600 Small Street in the historic former Union High School building, serves as a welcoming community hub dedicated to fostering peace, harmony, wholeness, and self-sufficiency across Sumner County. Born from a church-led initiative in the 1990s and officially incorporated in 1999, it welcomes children, youth, families, and adults of all backgrounds under the guiding principles of "Invite In, Encourage Here, and Love Forward," providing support, education, and opportunities that help people move beyond immediate challenges toward long-term prosperity and stronger community connections.

What truly helps our community is the Shalom Zone's wide range of free, practical programs. Kids and youth benefit from after-school enrichment with tutoring and meals, summer camps, robotics/STEM activities, and leadership experiences. Adults gain from free ESL and literacy classes (with childcare), while families turn to the Hygiene & Diaper Pantry, summer Street Feed meals, the community library and computer lab, and special events like the Back-to-School Bash that provides school supplies, haircuts, hygiene items, and more. Through these initiatives and partnerships such as Toys for Tots, the Shalom Zone strengthens families, promotes education, and creates lasting hope right here in Gallatin.

Christmas for Kids Fundraiser

Every year, our lodge's Christmas for Kids program brings incredible joy and support to children in our community during the holiday season. It's one of the most meaningful and awesome things we do, and this year we've set a goal of raising $2,500 to make it even more special for the families we serve.

We're already three months into the year and have only raised $200 so far, so we need your generous donations now more than ever to keep this wonderful tradition alive and thriving. When you contribute, please be sure to let our Secretary know that your gift is specifically for the Christmas for Kids program. Together, let's step up and make this our best year yet—every dollar truly makes a difference!

From the Scottish Rite

Brothers,

We are thrilled to announce that this year's Scottish Rite Reunion will be taking place on the weekends of April 10th–11th and April 17th–18th! If you're a Scottish Rite member and it's been a while since you last attended, we warmly invite you to come back and experience the degrees again.

That first time through the class really does feel like drinking from a fire hose, so there is tremendous value in returning — reconnecting with your Brothers, rediscovering the powerful lessons, and often seeing new layers of meaning you may have missed before. It's always a refreshing and inspiring experience that strengthens our bonds and reignites our passion for the work.

We also have several volunteer opportunities available, and every helping hand makes a real difference! Whether you can assist with one task or several, your support would be deeply appreciated as we create another outstanding reunion.

If you are not yet a member, this Spring Class is the perfect time to join us! Please see our Treasurer, James Lampley, for a petition and we'll get you signed up right away.

For more information, feel free to email us anytime at info@ksl6.org. We can't wait to see you there and share this wonderful weekend of fellowship and growth together!

Masonic Blue Lodge Etiquette as Living Ritual: Why It Must Not Be Changed—Because It Is One of the Proven Methods of “Making Good Men Better”

In Freemasonry, the ritual—the scripted, memorized ceremonies of the three degrees—is universally understood to be sacred and immutable. We do not “improve” the Hiram Legend, rewrite the obligation, or shorten the Middle Chamber lecture on a whim. Why? Because the ritual is not mere theater; it is a carefully engineered system of moral instruction. Every word, every gesture, every symbol is designed to impress upon the candidate’s heart and mind the timeless lessons of virtue, self-discipline, and brotherly love. The ancient landmarks forbid tampering with it for the simple reason that any alteration risks breaking the chain of transmission that has carried those lessons unchanged for centuries.

Blue Lodge etiquette is the same kind of ritual. It is simply the unspoken part of the ceremony—the silent ritual that continues the moment the ceremony opens the lodge and does not end until it closes. Just as the candidate is taught to advance by three steps in the Entered Apprentice degree, the brethren are taught to rise together, salute the East together, and never pass between the Altar and the Master. Just as the ritual demands exact pronunciation of certain words, etiquette demands exact posture, exact forms of address, and exact timing of movement. These are not arbitrary social niceties; they are symbolic actions every bit as deliberate as circumambulating the Altar or giving the due guard.

The Parallel Is Intentional and Deliberate. Masonic writers from Albert Mackey to modern ritualists have long described etiquette as “the outer form of the inner work.” The same mind that invented the Three Great Lights also invented the rule that you never speak until recognized by the Worshipful Master. Why? Because both teach the identical virtue: humility before lawful authority.

- The ritual teaches it through allegory.
- Etiquette teaches it through habit.

Every time a brother waits patiently at the door until the Junior Deacon admits him, he is rehearsing the lesson of patience. Every time he stands at perfect attention during prayer, he is rehearsing reverence. Every time he addresses the Master correctly and never turns his back on the East without permission, he is rehearsing order and respect. These repeated actions are not decoration—they are the daily gymnasium in which a man strengthens the moral muscles that the degree work first awakened.

This is why Grand Lodges and thoughtful Past Masters have always resisted casual changes to lodge etiquette. To modernize it “for comfort” or “to make it more appealing to young men” is to do to etiquette what changing the obligation would do to the degrees: quietly remove one of the very tools the Craft uses to transform character. The methods of Freemasonry are not slogans on a poster; they are lived practices. Repetition of correct form creates correct character. That is the entire science of the Craft. “Making Good Men Better” Requires Unchanging Methods. The famous Masonic phrase is not “make good men better by whatever feels good today.” It is “make good men better” by the ancient methods. Those methods include:

- The ritual (spoken and acted)
- The landmarks
- The etiquette (lived and repeated)

When a lodge begins to allow slouching, whispering, cell phones on and in use, or casual address of the Master and the brethren, it is not being “progressive.” It is quietly discarding one of the proven instruments of moral formation. The man who learns to control his body and tongue inside the tyled lodge is the same man who learns to control his passions outside it. The brother who never passes between the Altar and the East learns, over years, never to place his own ego between himself and the light of truth. These are not small things; they are the subtle, cumulative alchemy that actually changes a man.

A Charge to Every Mason, The next time you feel tempted to “loosen up” the etiquette in your lodge—perhaps to save five minutes or to seem more casual—remember that you are standing in a room where men have performed these same forms for hundreds of years precisely so that each new generation could receive the same moral training. The ritual and the etiquette are twin brothers. They were born together in the ancient charges and they must be preserved together if the Craft is to keep its promise: to take a good man and, through unchanging methods of symbol, repetition, and discipline, send him out into the world a measurably better one.

The Worshipful Master who guards both the ritual and the etiquette is not being rigid. He is being faithful to the oldest and most effective system of character building the world has ever known. In the Blue Lodge, etiquette is not etiquette at all—it is ritual in motion, and therefore it must remain exactly as our forefathers left it: a quiet, constant teacher of the Masonic art of self-improvement.

From the Secretary

It is hard to believe that we have already had 3 stated meetings in 2026 but your lodge has been very busy this year. Please come out and join us for the stated meetings which occur the first Thursday of each month. A meal will be served at 6pm with the business meeting starting promptly at 7pm.

During the March stated meeting we had a visiting brother from Liberty Lodge #48 located in Liberty, Texas and we were able to discover some of the exciting things happening in Texas Masonry. We also presented 2 brothers with their Master Masons Proficiency certificates. Any Master Mason who turns in their 3rd Degree lecture is eligible to receive this recognition.

Don't forget about the following events happening within the next several weeks: Grand Lodge Communication is March 25-26 at your Grand Lodge building located in Nashville. A current dues card is required for admittance. The District 12 meeting to be held at the Macon County Fairgrounds on April 11 with a meal provided at 6pm and lastly a fund raiser breakfast to be held at your King Solomon Lodge #6 on April 25 from 7:30am – 11:00am. Proceeds to benefit the lodge charity fund and My Happy Place which is a local organization that supports special needs adults.

As mentioned in last months article, dues notices have been sent out for 2026. Thanks to those who have paid and we look forward to receiving the balance of dues payments in the coming weeks. Your King Solomon Lodge #6 has also established a Christmas fund to assist needy families in Gallatin for the 2026 Christmas season. Donations may be sent throughout the year to the lodge at:
