

Master's Message

Greetings from the East.

Brethren,

It's hard to believe, but May is already upon us. It has been a challenging year so far, yet we have accomplished several things that have already benefited us—and will continue to benefit—our great Lodge.

One such example is Bro. Robbie's work in creating an event page for our website. Bro. Lampley has taken on the task of publishing an amazing Lodge Bulletin. He is accepting help but so far, crickets. It is a large task so if anyone would like to write an educational piece or anything that they think would be beneficial to share please send that information to info@ksl6.org and we will get it published!

There is still much to be accomplished. I would like to see us present a successful educational piece at each stated meeting, establish a speaker series featuring knowledgeable Brothers who can bring more light to our Lodge, and continue guiding our Lodge back to its strong Masonic roots.

Let us join together and strive for greatness within King Solomon Lodge No. 6. Through unity, dedication, and purpose, together we can achieve these goals. The key word there is "TOGETHER", if this much progress has been achieved by a few imagine what we could accomplish if everyone added just a little to our progress.

Be the Light!

Sincerely and fraternally,

Wor. Robert E. Pollard
Worshipful Master, 2026

From the Quarry

We had a wonderful turnout at the recent District 12 Meeting held in Macon County! It was a great evening of fellowship and inspiration as we welcomed our new Most Worshipful Grand Master, J. Wesley Edens.

Pictured are:
Most Worshipful Grand Master J. Wesley Edens,
Worshipful Master Robert E. Pollard Jr.,
Senior Warden Mike Lenart,
Junior Warden Robbie Pollard, and Senior Deacon Jeff Fullerton.

The Grand Line delivered very encouraging messages, and Most Worshipful Grand Master Edens laid out a clear and exciting framework for the coming year along with his expectations for our lodges. It was truly uplifting to see the enthusiasm and vision coming from the top.

A big thank you to everyone who attended — moments like these strengthen our District and remind us why we are proud to be Masons. Let's carry that energy back into our lodge and make this year one of growth, brotherhood, and meaningful work!

The spirit of evil lives in our lodge! But it is not what you think! Brethren, it's only Jeff Fullerton! He delivered a fabulous performance in the 19th Degree as "the Spirit of Evil" and absolutely nailed it. Eddie and Robbie had a great time in the kitchen with the Hospitallers' committee, and several other brothers stepped up with strong performances and helped wherever needed. And the food? It was free—and by far the best it has ever been!

Please join us this fall to relearn and relive these powerful lessons while enjoying the great camaraderie with your brothers in the Scottish Rite Valley of Nashville!

The Early History of Masonry – Origins in England and France

One of the great joys of our fraternity is learning how our Craft came to be. While the exact beginnings are shrouded in the mists of time—and our own legends trace the Craft all the way back to the building of King Solomon’s Temple—historians agree that modern speculative Freemasonry has its strongest documented roots in the British Isles, with an important and vibrant early chapter unfolding in France.

In medieval England, Scotland, and France, “operative” masons—the actual skilled builders of cathedrals, castles, abbeys, and great public buildings—formed guilds and local lodges as early as the 1300s. These craftsmen guarded the secrets of their trade (geometry, stone-cutting techniques, and architectural knowledge), used moral symbols drawn from their working tools, and gathered in temporary “lodges” built right on the job site. The earliest written regulations we still possess come from England around 1390—the famous Regius Poem, one of the Old Charges that governed how masons should behave, treat one another, and keep their craft secrets.

By the late 1500s the tradition was already well organized in Scotland. The oldest surviving minutes of any Masonic lodge still in existence today belong to the Lodge of Edinburgh (Mary’s Chapel) No. 1, which began keeping records on July 31, 1599. These minutes show a fully operative lodge at work, yet they also hint that the Craft was already beginning to welcome men of learning and high character who were not working stonemasons. Similar lodges existed in England, and by the mid-1600s we see the first clear examples of “accepted” or non-operative members. In 1646, the famous antiquarian Elias Ashmole recorded attending a lodge meeting in Warrington, England—marking one of the earliest known initiations of a speculative Mason.

The great turning point that gave birth to the Freemasonry we practice today occurred in England in 1717. On June 24—St. John the Baptist’s Day—representatives of four old London lodges met at the Goose and Gridiron tavern near St. Paul's Cathedral. There they formed the world's first Grand Lodge, known today as the Premier Grand Lodge of England. This single act transformed the scattered operative lodges into an organized system of speculative Freemasonry open to men of all professions. The focus shifted from building with stone to building character, morality, and brotherhood. The new Grand Lodge quickly produced standardized rituals and the first Book of Constitutions (1723), and the Craft spread rapidly across England and the colonies.

France soon became the second great center of Masonic life. English and Scottish expatriates—many with ties to the Jacobite cause or diplomatic service—introduced speculative Masonry to Paris around 1725–1730. French lodges multiplied at an astonishing rate during the Age of Enlightenment. The intellectual ferment of the time made Paris a perfect home for Masonic ideals of reason, tolerance, and moral improvement. By the 1750s France was a hotbed of new Masonic ideas. It was here that many of the “higher degrees” and additional rites we still study today were first developed and refined. In 1773 the Grand Orient de France was founded, becoming one of the most influential Masonic bodies on the European continent and helping carry the light of the Craft to courts, salons, and colonies around the world.

So whether you trace our Craft back to the stonecutters of medieval England and Scotland, to the tavern-born Grand Lodge of 1717, or to the brilliant lodges of Enlightenment France, one truth remains constant: Masonry has always been about building. Not merely with stone and mortar, but with brotherhood, morality, charity, and the lifelong pursuit of light. We stand on the shoulders of those early brothers in both nations. Let us honor their legacy—operative and speculative alike—by keeping the light of Masonry burning brightly in our own lodge today.

*If anyone else is interested in submitting an educational piece, please feel free to do so.
Send it to info@ksl6.org and we will get it scheduled to appear in an upcoming bulletin!
Seriously we would appreciate the help!*

The Tennessee Lodge of Research, F. & A. M., is a subordinate lodge instituted to foster and expand knowledge of the history and philosophy of the craft by encouraging masonic study and research, thereby assisting the Grand Lodge in its diffusion of masonic light and education by publishing masonic information and educational material. It was formed in 1983 and received its charter in 1985.

Meetings are held quarterly on the first Saturday of each March and the second Saturday of each June, September, and December at high twelve. Meetings are held in different lodges and different geographical areas of Tennessee each quarter. Typically, the March meeting is held in West Tennessee (west of the Tennessee River), the June meeting in Middle Tennessee, the September meeting in the East Tennessee area, and the December meeting at our "home Lodge," Sparta Lodge No. 99 in Sparta, TN.

Normally, a meal is served prior to each meeting and a talk about a Masonic or Masonically affiliated subject is presented at each meeting. These talks are presented by both members and nonmembers and an attempt is made to keep them non-esoteric in nature so they may be printed in the proceedings and can be attended by non-masons.

Master Masons interested in joining the Tennessee Lodge of Research reach out to the Secretary at: secretary@tnlor.org

From the Secretary

As noted in last month's Secretaries Corner, the Grand Lodge of Tennessee conducted its Annual Communication in March. As for the printing of this month's column, I had not received the results of their actions but I should have them by next month and will communicate those at that time.

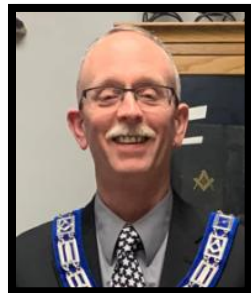

There has been a lot of interest in your local Masonic Lodge as we have received several petitions for membership and have had many visitors from local and out-of-state lodges to join us at our stated meetings. If you haven't been to the lodge late, please come out and enjoy some good brotherly fellowship while partaking of a wonderful meal provided by Brad and Mary Beaver. The meal is served at 6pm in our fellowship hall with the meeting beginning at 7pm.

The Lodge is also in the planning stages for an event to recognize and honor our new 50-year members and past Masters. Stay tuned for more details to come.

I will close by reminding those that have not paid their dues for 2026 to try to get those in as soon as possible. If you have any questions concerning your dues, please feel free to reach out to me.

Your King Solomon Lodge #6 has also established a Christmas fund to assist needy families in Gallatin for the 2026 Christmas season. Donations may be sent throughout the year to the lodge at:
